Chamber Will Again Host 'Meet The Teachers' Night

Another "Meet the teachers" as possible. Insurance companies night will be held at Vulcan Armories Friday, Sept. 29, sponsored by the Vulcan and District Chamber of Commerce. The date for this event was set following the regular monthly meeting of the business group held Wednesday, Sept. 6.

Local teachers turned out in force to the first such night held last year when businessmen, wives and guests met and were hosts to local new teachers and renewed acquaintances with returning members of the staff.

In other Chamber business the project to stimulate development of apartment housing at Vulcan is still being pressed. CMHC officials were unable to attend a proposed meeting with the Chamber during the summer to discuss financing but are being sought for another meeting at Vulcan as soon

A campaign to publicize local business and encourage the "Shop at home" theme was tabled until the November meeting of the Chamber when a member of the organizing firm will be in attendance to explain the proposal more fully.

The Chamber quest for a shoe-maker to set up business here has not been successful yet. Manpower centre officials who were contacted, explain that the best hope is to sponsor such a tradesman from England or Europe.

An official of the Manpower Centre will be on hand at the next meeting of the Chamber to discuss possibilities of holding a course locally in business law, bookkeeping or allied subjects.

High School Football

County Central Cougars Defeat Picture Butte, 33-7

(By Patsy Husby)

The CCHS Cougars vs. the Picture Butte Elks — the first of the games to be played in the high school football league — took place in Vulcan Saturday, Sept. 16. In spite of the fact that the Cougars have had no previous football experience, they managed to defeat the Elks by a score of 33 to 7.

The Elks, coached by Ross Harvey, Ken McKenzie and Don Behrens, played a powerful game against the Cougars. Leading players Leo and Bob Takasaki, Darryl Bosnak and Larry Iwanto, helped make the local boys fight for every yard gained, but could not keep up with the Cougars.

The first quarter was an exciting part of the game with both teams struggling for control of the game; however, no points were scored during this time. The second quarter was a different story. The Cougars' ground attack had strengthened, and Brian Lebsack grabbed a pass for the Cougars' first unconverted touchdown, thus giving the team the inspiration it needed. Meanwhile the Elks got a rouge, good for one point.

The third quarter was also the scene of excitement. Kenny Weber saw a hole open up the middle and dove for another six points. Brian Lebsack kicked a field goal, leaving the score 15-1.

During the fourth quarter, both teams seemed to have tired a bit, still, several exciting plays were made. The Elks from Picture Butte caused consternation by marching down the field for a touchdown. Tow Klippert supplied some excitement when, with only two minutes to go, he intercepted a pass and tore down the field to add to CCHS' score. The game was nearly over when Darwin House scrambled across the line for the last six points scored. The Cougars were also inspired by the hard work of Craig Haga and Allan Barr, as well as that of the coaches Don Beggs and Dave Philpot.

This was the first game of the season; the next is on Oct. 7, at CCHS and it is hoped there will be greater spectator support to cheer the CCHS Cougars on.

The 1967 shooting season for ducks and geese opens in this area on Friday, Sept. 22 and closes Saturday, Dec. 2.

Daily bag limit is eight ducks (of which not more than five may be mallards) and five geese. Possession limits are 16 ducks (of which not more than 10 may be mallards) and 10 geese.

Migratory game bird hunting permits available at post office.

TUCK AND FRIEND

Lonesome Horse In The Old Corral

Two fast friends were separated on Friday, Aug. 26. A part-collie dog which strayed to the Loss Kuykendall farm six years ago and became an inseparable companion to Loss's horse Tuck, was killed by an auto.

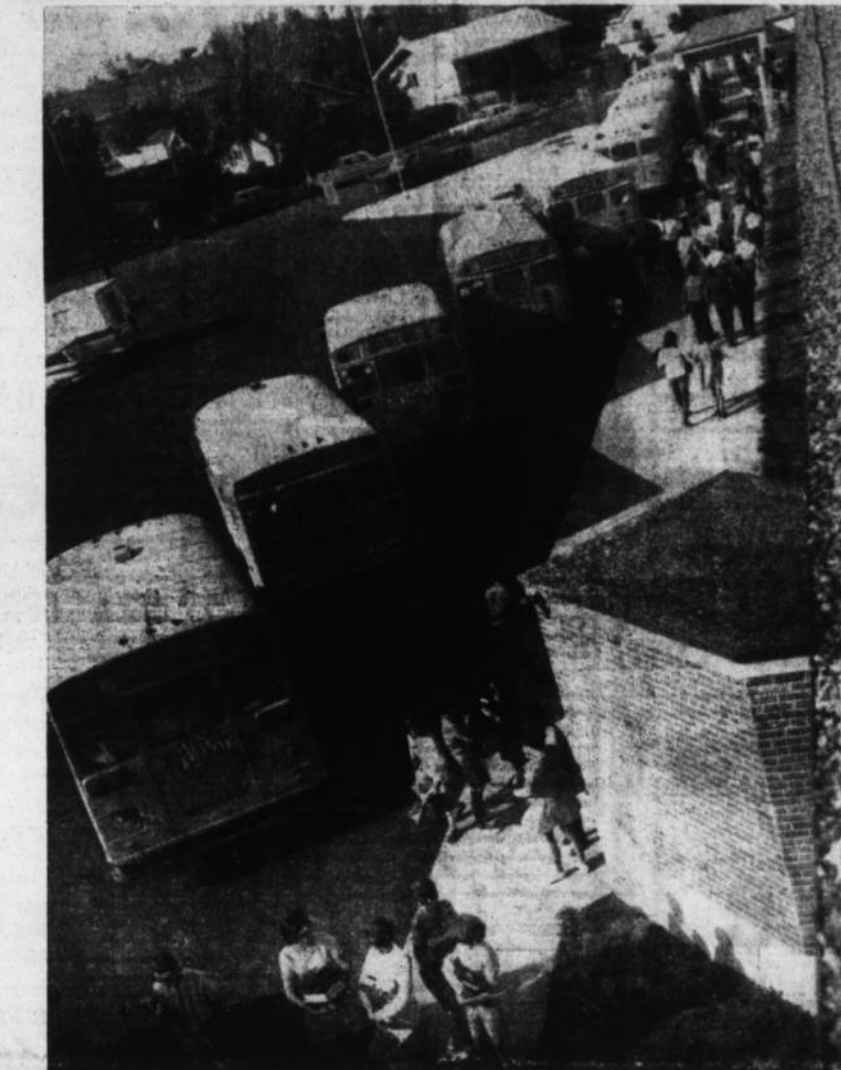

Even supposedly dumb creatures seem to have feelings and Tuck stayed near the barn for days after the loss of his friend gazing down the field for his mate who won't be back.

Familiar to motorists along the main highway at the Lomond junction where the farm is located, the two animals were together in the fields of the now vacant farmstead winter and summer and a daily chore for Loss has been the feeding and watering of his "livestock".

Several years ago Doug Wilson, former resident of the Kirkcaldy district who travelled the road daily, suggested a photo of the pair would be of interest but when an Advocate photographer climbed through the farm fence the dog made his objections known and quickly escorted Tuck down the field well out of range.

The above photo was taken by Mr. Kuykendall last winter and was about as close to the dog as Loss usually got.

TELL ME, DAD. You can't really remember a sight like this in your day as a student. Indeed, although some dads and moms may be familiar with the old rickety converted cars or pick-ups that served as vans in other years, most will have a more familiar recollection of a hitching post or horse shelter over near the house of the old country school. This photo was taken from the roof of County Central High School at departure time during the first week of school and it is repeated every day at the county schools where 1200 students are vanned. At County Central High and Hazel Cameron Elementary School 18 vans are in service.

Town Elections—Nomination Day Wed., Sept. 27th

Nomination day for town elections is Wednesday, Sept. 27, and vacancies to be filled this year are: Mayor, for a term of two years; two councillors, for three-year terms of office; and town representative on the board of the Vulcan Municipal Hospital District, for a three-year term of office.

Mayor C. G. Ness, whose term of office expires this fall, has not yet indicated whether or not he will again run. He has served nine years as a councillor and two years as mayor.

Councillors whose terms of office expire this fall are George Richardson and David Schierman. Mr. Richardson, who has served six years on council and is presently chairman of the waterworks committee, has stated that he will not run for re-election.

B. W. Banks has represented the town on the hospital board, filling the unexpired term of M. R. Morrison.

J. Lundy Findlay is returning officer and nominations will be received between 11 a.m. and 12 noon at the town office next Wednesday, Sept. 27.

Approval of the construction of a UFA Co-op farm supply centre to be located NW of OCIL property on 2nd Ave., was given at the regular town council meeting earlier this month.

It was decided that as much work as possible would be done this fall in building up and improving the elevator road.

A letter from United Grain Growers thanked the fire department for helping save the UGG elevator at Armada and invited a bill for services rendered. The letter was referred to the Vulcan Rural Fire Protection Co-op Ltd.

Council was informed that, early in October, the headquarters of the Vulcan Unit, Emergency Measures Organization, would move to permanent quarters in the County Administration Building.

By by-law, council set building permit fees at $1.00 per $1,000, with a minimum of $3.00 and maximum fee of $26.00.

Permission was granted to 10 members of the Grade 10 Social Science class at County Central High School to attend the regular council meeting on Sept. 25, as part of their course of studies.

Buford Walker was appointed as deputy-mayor for the months of October, November and December.

The quarter-billion-dollar plant of Great Canadian Oil Sands Limited started production this summer of crude oil from the vast Athabasca tar sands in Alberta.

Big Tourney For Junior Golfers Last Saturday

Vulcan Junior Golfers had one of their biggest turnouts ever, for their tournament on Saturday, Sept. 16, with a total of 26 entries. And it was a big day for all as they golfed in the morning, cheered the high school rugby team to victory in the afternoon and wound up the day with a supper and dance at the clubhouse in the evening.

In the girls' 14-and-under competition Debbie Wolfe won first prize with Ellen Watson second. In the same class for boys, it was Dave Haverly on top followed by Ken Hammer and Rick Klippert, tied for second.

The girls' over 14 bracket was won by Karen Boutland with Carol Wellman in runner-up spot while the boys' section was won by Tom Klippert and Craig Brown was in second spot.

There were eight Vulcan golfers who took in the Big 8 Men's Open Tourney at Bowness Golf Course in Calgary on Sunday, but as all of them left for home before the presentation of prizes it is not known how successful they were at golf. The only certain winner was Ray Wellman who was notified that he had won the $25 door prize.

Newest Crop Is Harlason Apples

A gardener with an urge to experiment, John Perley this fall has harvested a full box of large, ripe apples from one Harlason apple tree planted in his yard.

The yield off three other varieties of apple trees didn't amount to much says Mr. Perley, and a pear tree also failed to produce this year. But Mr. Perley thinks that some varieties of eastern trees can be adapted to our climate and will continue to experiment with trees brought in from Ontario.

1967 Record Year

Town Fire Brigade Has Roaring Business; In Alta. Hose Finals

A record year in Vulcan Fire Department activity is forecast with three country calls being made within the last week.

On Wednesday, Sept. 13 a tractor fire on the Rex Caldwell farm at Champion was fought by the local brigade. The older model tractor suffered extensive damage.

At about noon Sunday the rig was called to the home of Mrs. B. Prater of Brant where a storage shed was burning. A new lawn mower and other equipment were lost in the blaze that had an unknown origin. This is the fifth fire for the rural pumper in the Brant-Ensign area in the last two months.

Monday afternoon at about 4:30 another call came from the Sam White farm on the Nanton road just this side of the Little Bow. A cattle shed with a sod roof was being cleaned out and apparently tractor exhaust or sparks were responsible for this blaze. Two small buildings and a corral were lost. In this fire additional water was taken from the Little Bow and each time the pumper made the trip the fire regained headway.

A point of concern being expressed by local R.C.M.P. and town police is the headlong rush of cars carrying spectators to fires, especially on country calls. Instances of cars passing the fire truck on dusty gravel roads forcing the pumper to slow down and other acts of carelessness have been reported and police are prepared to deal severely with this dangerous practice.

Through a series of summer eliminations a crew of the local brigade won the distinction of being among the five finalists in the Fire Department Competition, Provincial Championships, held at Red Deer, Sept. 9. Andy Broere, Tom Wiley, Cal Rutberg and Fire Chief Bob Johnston made up the local entry and at the end of the day only seconds in timing separated the five teams. The Vulcan outfit were only seven tenths seconds off top spot in the first of the final event and Bob Johnston said in complimenting his team, that they would have won except that he pulled one wrong lever costing seconds of time.

Picture Butte won the trophy followed by Red Deer, Calgary, Vulcan and County of Strathmore.

Many Swimmers Qualify

Champion Swimming Pool Successful In First Season

(By Champion Correspondent)

Champion's Centennial Swimming Pool closed Sunday, Sept. 17, after a very successful summer. The number of beginner swimmers listed below are only a few of the many that our capable instructor, Roberta Davis, has taught to swim. A number of ladies have enjoyed her instruction at ladies' classes in the afternoon, and although some thought they were hopeless cases, they were swimming the length of the pool after a few hours of lessons.

Along with our thanks to Roberta for many extra hours, spent with our children, we owe many thanks to David Mitchell of Vulcan who did the testing; he made three trips down, taking time from his business, to do this service at no charge. So a big thank-you David from the swimmers at the Champion pool, we parents really appreciate you.

These swimmers are the results of the whole summer's lessons and tests:

District AgriculturistSWEATING POTATOES FOR STORAGE

Newly harvested potatoes should be made to "sweat it out" before being placed in low temperature storage.

Doing so will help to improve their quality when cooked, says Dr. Charles Walkof, of the Canada Department of Agriculture's Research Station at Morden, Man.

Potato tubers are living parts of the plants and even after harvest they continue to respire freely as they become dormant, explains the researcher. Studies at Morden relating to quality development in potatoes have shown that a period of active respiration or "sweating" prior to storage is important to obtain good flavor, fluffy texture and white color in cooked potatoes.

Providing facilities for potatoes to sweat before storage is not a new practice, he points out. It is still followed in many areas of Europe where newly harvested potatoes are piled and then covered with a four-inch thick blanket of straw which in turn is covered with a layer of soil two inches in depth. Such a pile is known as a "clump". The potatoes remain in the clump for at least two to three weeks before they are moved to storage at 40 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit.

But this field method is impractical where large acreages of potatoes are involved, the researcher explains. Regular storages, however, may serve the purpose satisfactorily. The trick is not to submit the freshly harvested potatoes to low temperatures as soon as they are put in storage. Holding them at a temperature of 70 degrees F. for the first two or three weeks will facilitate sweating and will improve the cooking qualities of the potatoes, says Dr. Walkof.

Locally, the main problem have been "sweet" potatoes which is a storage disease caused by storing the potatoes in too cool a place. As soon as potatoes are exposed to storage temperatures between 32 and 38 degrees F., sweetening takes place. WHAT CAN YOU DO?

DON'T store your potatoes outside after harvest when the temperatures might fall in the 32 to 38 degree F. range. Potatoes stored in a too cool cooler can also turn sweet. If your potatoes have turned sweet, store the tubers at 68 degrees F., for a few days before using them in the home.

High temperatures can cause problems also. In storage, blackheart will likely occur if the potatoes are piled too deeply. The cause is a lack of oxygen and high temperatures. This problem should not bother most gardeners.

Sunlight and fluorescent lights cause sunburn on potatoes. This disorder is more serious than the effects of cold temperature because the green color is "SOLANIN" which is poisonous. This can be avoided by not letting potatoes lay in the sun after digging or if you buy your potatoes, by not picking the plastic sack which is exposed to fluorescent lights.

Potatoes should be suitable for eating after six months of storage at 40 degrees F.

Box 480, Vulcan — Phone 485-2117

Dear Homemakers,

A NEW LOOK

In remodelling clothing, every effort should be made to have the garment look like new. Re-designing or recutting should be done to suit the individual for whom the garment is intended. If necessary, store the fabric or garments for a time rather than use it when not suitable. Those factors which make clothes as being outmoded are collars, sleeves, fullness of skirt, length of skirt
and waistline treatment.

To begin your remodelled garment, do all mending that is necessary. You may wish to brighten up that faded look with a tint or dye of a new color. This step should be carried out after ripping. When ripping, be careful in separating seams so as not to stretch them. Worn edges should be trimmed and grain line marked with a basting thread.

The use of the potential garment should be largely determined by the quality of the fabric. If the fabric is in relatively new condition, it would merit a more difficult pattern. It is unprofitable to spend a great deal of time sewing a fabric which is not going to be durable and which won't withstand the wear.

SEWING NAPPED FABRICS

Any nap or pile fabric, be it a short pile like corduroy, or a fuzzy fur, requires special cutting and sewing techniques.

Because the nap reflects light, it is essential to have all pattern pieces running in one direction.
For velvet, velveteen and corduroy,
the pile should run up. The depth of the pile will show better running in this direction. Fur fabrics, fleece and brushed wool are cut
with the nap running down.

Most heavy napped and pile fabrics require a light tension and a long stitch in sewing. Experiment with your material on a scrap and always sew in the same direction
as the pile.

Press all pile and napped fabrics as gently as possible. If you must place an iron on the fabrics, do so face down on a thick towel. Steam lightly and in the direction of the pile. Seams can be finger pressed.

THE LEATHER LOOK

This year's fashions are showing numerous suedes and smooth leather jackets and coats. If you're a lucky owner of such an elegant garment, you'll want to give it your best care. Hang your garment on a well shaped hanger.
Store it in an airy place. Starved of air, smooth leathers may fade and suedes mildew. If the garment should get wet, let it dry at room temperature.

Wipe any dust off your garment often. For suede, use a soft brush or sponge. For smooth leathers, employ a clean, damp cloth. If you find it necessary to press a leather outfit, use a dry iron at its lowest setting. Place a piece of heavy, brown paper between the iron and the surface of the leather. Press one panel at a time, constantly moving the iron to avoid overheating.

Never attempt to remove spots
and stain from a leather garment yourself. The use of a solvent or abrasive may injure the garment permanently. All cleaning of suedes and smooth leathers should be done by a qualified suede and leather cleaner. Specialized equipment and techniques are required in this process. In addition, garments are refatted, that is, the oils which have been lost in normal wear are replaced. The garment's life is extended and its original luxurious appearance is restored.

mer holiday. Mrs. Howie is back again.

Combining is finished in the district except for a few sloughs that have been too green to cut. The yield seems to have exceeded everyone's expectations for such a dry year. A real good rain could certainly be used now as everything is very dry.

Anyone having any news for this column is asked to please phone Amy Stokes.

and Kelly Greene as a housewife. Marble races with their noses, weeding grass, polishing shoes with tooth brushes and proposing were some of the recess activities.

At 7:30 p.m. it began again. All initiates were blind folded and bare footed with many parents and children looking on. They were taken across a specially prepared stage which was really a mixture of oatmeal, spaghetti, crickets and chocolate and told it was stew and "real good stuff." They were told to taste some. As soon as they all revived they were called one by one to court, and were given a sentence of some act on the stage.

Sandwiches, chips and pop was then served, followed by a record hop. All the fun ended at eleven o'clock with many of the initiates going home with ideas in their minds of what they will do to the new initiates of next year.

Focus On Education

The less education you have, the greater the chance that you will be unemployed at some future date. If you are young and lack an adequate education, there is an even greater chance you will be unemployed.

Many County of Vulcan students leave school early because they cannot resist the lure of good wages (to a high school student) and the freedom of employment. They forget that many of the manual jobs requiring little education are especially vulnerable to adverse economic conditions and that they are the first to suffer in the advent of lay-offs because they lack both seniority and experience. High unemployment rates among these same workers with low levels of education also result from the decline in the number of unskilled and semi-skilled jobs which have traditionally provided the bulk of employment opportunities for such workers. Recent statistics from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics give convincing evidence in that youngsters with only elementary education and who are in the age bracket of 14 to 19 make up 19.3% of the unemployed in Canada, the 20 to 24 age bracket accounted for 12.7% and the 25 to 44 age bracket an additional 9.3%.

Those with some high school education, 14 to 19, accounted for 8.4% of the unemployed, 20 to 24 for 7.2% and 25 to 44 3.8%.

However, those who had high school, or better, education accounted for only 4.6% of the unemployed in the 14 to 19 age bracket, for 2.7% in the 20 to 24 group, and only 1.7% in the 25 to 44 bracket.

We have excellent elementary and junior high facilities in every County of Vulcan community. In addition, County Central High School can offer courses that cater to the widest range of abilities and interests of students.

Figures for the province show that nearly half the population is 25 years of age or younger. With this, and the impressive figures from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics on the lack of education of the unemployed, parents must be more than casually interested in their children's education and give them every encouragement. There is also a responsibility on the part of community leaders to lend every assistance to promoting this investment in the communities future.

There is nothing new in this objective of urging students to stay in school. Perhaps, as parents, we just need a gentle reminder that it is a vital and necessary objective that is needed to carry children forward to a responsible and useful life in the community in a time of change and challenge.

Natural History Of Alberta Is Excellent Book

"Alberta: A Natural History" is an outstanding newly published book that is rated as "superlative." Subsidized heavily as their centennial project by four utility companies—Canadian Western Natural Gas Co. Ltd., Canadian Utilities Ltd., Northland Utilities Ltd., and Northwestern Utilities Ltd.—the book tells of Alberta's natural environment in 100,000 words and more than 500 photographs and pictures.

The first printing of 20,000 copies went on sale last week. It is available in Vulcan at the regular retail price of $5.95 and ordinarily would sell at about $15 if it had not been so heavily subsidized by the four utility companies. It is the work of 25 specialists, with Dr. W. G. Hardy as editor-in-chief, and covers the land in four chapters, flora and fauna in seven and man in three. It is written in non-technical language easily understood by the

The 1967-68 band season has started for the junior members and is about to get under way for beginners and the senior band. Under the direction of Art Dee, junior rehearsals began last week and an organization meeting of parents and youngsters wishing to join the band is set for Wednesday, Sept. 27 at 7:30 p.m., at Hazel Cameron Elementary School.

Resumption of senior band rehearsals has been held up pending the completion of harvesting but with the crop off, activities should begin within the next couple of weeks.

Of the first printing, 4,000 books have been distributed free. Fourteen have been distributed in Vulcan, Champion and Carmangay with the compliments of the Canadian Western Natural Gas Co. Ltd., by their local agent, Larry Mitchell. This distribution included two copies to the CCHS library and one each to the public library, Peter Dawson Lodge, Vulcan Municipal Hospital, The Vulcan Advocate and Mayor C. G. Ness, with similar distribution in Champion and Carmangay.

For those interested in the natural history of Alberta, this book is highly recommended.

FIRE STRIKES AGAIN

The resident property of Mrs. B. Prater was the scene of a fire on Sunday about 12:00 noon, when a storage shed burned from unknown origin. The smoke was first noticed billowing from the roof by neighbors before it actually broke into flames.

Mrs. B. Prater who was home at the time was unaware of the fire until alerted by Clarence Stabler who had arrived on the scene immediately.

Quick response of the town people and community once again were able to control the fire until the Vulcan Fire Department arrived with their rural pumper truck.

This is the third scene of fire of the immediate Brant area that the Vulcan Fire Department has answered and responded too so quickly, since August. It is very gratifying to people in the rural area to know this service is available to them at such a time.
